Islamic Guiding Principles for Our School Community

At OASIS, our goal is to foster both spiritual and academic excellence within our students. This communication is simply a reminder of what our core religious-spiritual goals entail.

As Muslims, we believe that we are human beings created by God and given a soul. This doctrine and belief means that we are ultimately responsible for our actions and conduct during our worldly life, which has been gifted to us by God. Therefore, our belief should necessarily translate into a lived spirituality. Hence, belief and action are two complementary aspects, which make up the life of a Muslim.

However, this acknowledgement itself is not sufficient without a thorough understanding of what our belief requires. One of the greatest implications of this belief is that our morality is not something simply shaped by our societal or even familial customs, but rather it is given shape, direction, and guidance from a divine source. This divine source comes in two immediate forms. Firstly, it is the revelation of Allah, namely the Qur'an. Secondly, it is the sunnah (practice and tradition) of Allah's final messenger, Muhammad al-Mustafa and his family, the Ahlul-Bayt (as).

These two sources suffice as our principal guides demonstrating how we should conduct ourselves and how to build a school and community that is virtuous and productive in both this world and the hereafter. In this regard, we consider the adherence to Islamic jurisprudence (fiqh) as necessary. Hence, we also consider the taqlid of a marja' al-taqlid (source of emulation) to be a necessary act which allows us to discover how to live a life which is congruent with God's divine will and the sunnah of the fourteen infallibles (ma'sumin)

This is our worldview and our belief. Our ultimate aim is for our pursuits, vision, and direction to be guided by these pristine sources. Therefore, as Muslims accepting that we are creatures of God blessed with a soul and intellect, we are now faced with a choice. That is to accept wholeheartedly that we are answerable to God, and that right and wrong are given a clear and defined spectrum. This is the all-encompassing, God-centric doctrine of Islam, which is also shared by other faiths.

In light of the above preface, the guidelines, education, and admonitions carried out by our school must be infused by this God-centric worldview. The practice of daily prayer, the necessity of hijab, modest-regulated gender interaction, prohibitions regarding certain forms of media, and other matters must be seen within the above context. The school expects its staff, teachers, parents, and students to aide one another in achieving this lofty goal in the hope that our efforts are accepted by God and bring pleasure to the Imam of our time (May Allah hasten his reappearance) who is privy to our deeds.

Salaat in the Masjid: Imam Ja'far as-Sadiq (a.s.) has said; You are advised to visit mosques (often) for these are God's houses on the earth. The students of As-Sadiq are privileged to be able to visit the Masjid every weekday, and say their Dhuhr and Asr salaat in the Masjid. The Islamic studies teachers have been discussing the importance of praying in an actual Masjid and the etiquette and rules of a Masjid. We request that all parents discuss this at home too, and emphasize the sanctity of the Masjid and the need to observe silence and respect while in this holy place. For a detailed description of the rules and etiquettes of a Masjid, please visit: <http://www.al-islam.org/rules-for-masjid/>
